the other invention.

The different substances for upregulating expression of Notch or a Notch ligand comprise significantly different biological activities. For example, Noggin and IL-4 comprise unrelated molecules with unrelated functions on different cell types. Notch, versus ligands which bind Notch, also comprise unrelated molecules. The various Notch ligands comprise different activating capabilities under different conditions. Therefore, the species are independent and patentable over one another.

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Dr. Gerald Ewoldt whose telephone number is (571) 272-0843. The examiner can normally be reached Monday through Thursday from 7:30 am to 5:30 pm. A message may be left on the examiner's voice mail service. If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Christina Chan can be reached on (571) 272-0841.

DETAILED ACTION

1. In the amendment filed 1/20/04 the claims have been amended such that a new restriction is required.

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. § 121:

I. Claims 2, 4-9, 19-20, 25, and 27, drawn to method for producing a regulatory lymphocyte comprising contacting a lymphocyte with a primed APC, classified in Class 435, subclass 372.

II. Claims 10-11, 13, and 30, drawn to method for producing a regulatory lymphocyte comprising contacting a lymphocyte with a regulatory lymphocyte, classified in Class 435, subclass 372.3.

III. Claims 12, 17, and 32, drawn to a method for suppressing an immune response or treating a patient suffering from a disease characterized by inappropriate lymphocyte activity comprising administering a regulatory lymphocyte to a patient or mammal, classified in Class 424, subclass 93.71.

3. Inventions I-III are different methods. In vivo methods of treating patients (Group III) comprise significantly different process steps and endpoints than do in vitro methods (Groups I and II). Groups I and II differ in that they employ different reagents (a lymphocyte, e.g., a T cell, versus an APC) to produce a regulatory lymphocyte. Therefore they are patentably distinct.

4. This application contains inventions drawn to patentably distinct species. Regardless of Group chosen, Applicant is further required under 35 U.S.C. § 121 to elect:

A) a specific substance for upregulating expression of Notch or a Notch ligand, such as those listed in Claims 46 or 7,

B) Notch or a specific Notch ligand, such as one of those listed in Claim 8.

C) and list all Claims readable thereon including those subsequently added. Currently all claims are generic.

5. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of
